The conscience is the internal policeman which is planted in our minds by our interactions with the outside world. Consequently, when a court judges in the name of conscience, that court is holding up the individual's behaviour to an objective standard. This conceptualisation of conscience and of 'unconscionability' is shown to be the common thread running through the law on dishonest ...

Conscience is a cognitive process that elicits emotion and rational associations based on an individual's moral philosophy or value system. Conscience stands in contrast to elicited emotion or thought due to associations based on immediate sensory perceptions and reflexive responses, as in sympathetic central nervous system responses.
